Pindarick POEM

On the ROYAL

NAVY.

Most humbly Dedicated to Their August Majesties,

k. William, and Q. Mary.

Written by Mr. D'urfey.

Devisum Imperium cum Jove Casar habet. In vita Virgil.

Alta petunt, Pelago credas innare Revulsas Cycladas, aut montes concurrere montibus altos. Virgil lib. 8.

LONDON:

Printed, and are to be fold by Randall Taylor, near Stationers-Hall. 1691.

M. HO. H. O. F. M.

I MO NOY AND

Y. V.A.

Man hambi 's redicated of Their stugart religionies,

.graff. O suc rangilles. A

Wind by Ma Duyley.

Deviled Important our fore Color habet.

Alta p ... Polago ver as innera Resulfs Cycled ... a menes i mentres monione alsos.

Typical ... a menes i mentrese monione alsos.

1700000

hinted and as to be fold by Randall Transfer

the ralle file to the south

d hatetoliare we were to normal in the state of the same shows

Pindarick POEM.

Volen Marcel Floor drave con so their Walls, and Royally revend the mosk of their group! Tennis-Balls, YALM was the Ocean, as when first the Sun Bleffing the new Creation, had begun, To prove the Makers power, and disperse Indulgent Beams arround the Infant Universe sog line and Triumphant Neptune clear'd his stormy Brown W. Curl'd his green dropping Locks, and now auditable His Aged face with wanton smiling feem'd thou and the As if his present Joy, had his past years redeem'd About him throng'd in every place promised amount Nareids and Trytons, all the Finny Race and I had That many a Century of years had strove,
T' express their dutious Zeal and Love,
Where-e're the Watry God his Chariot drove Hush'd in the Calm of soft contentment lay, Some Daned, whilst others with the Sea Nymphs play, All pleased to fee their Monarch fmile, & the propitious day. ne great falle Light of the groud Gallick Sam.

For now Great Britains Glory gan t'appear,
The Royal Navy here, in the month of the state of the Predeftind bleft, its glorious Course did Steer: ing and one Castles Impregnable, not made to yield and and As when of old the hands of Gods did build;

Glide

Glide on the rowling Billows and make sport With each opofing furge, a Monarchs Court Is every Vessel, and in every Room

Cafar might think himself at home, The Amorous Sails swell with the Winds that blow. And Woods of English Oak upon the Ocean grow, The Flower de Luce, and Type of English tame,

When they the French did lame: Guilds every Flag, and in each Lyons eves The Rage of our wrong'd Nation feems to rife;

To fee what now they are, And heretofore we were;

When Martial Henry drove 'em to their Walls. And Royally reveng'd the mock of their proud Tennis-Balls.

was the Ocean, as it in first the Sun-Britannia first the Empress of the Fleet. In awful pomp rides on each humble Wave; Who forward Crowd with joy as pleased to meet: Her glorious Stern and mighty fides to Lave; The Jocund Dolphins round about her Keel, Whene're the Martial Trumpets Sound; The Charming Influence of Musick feel, And Dance an Antick Round; Whilft on the Deck a Thousand Heroes are; Valiant and young, true Natives, scorning fear, That Englands Ancient Blood, and Honour bear: And at their feet a hundred Brazen fates;

That kill as fast as Jove Creates: When their hot Balls of Death are flying on,

T. Eclipse the great false Light of the proud Gallick Sun.

IV.

With Bloody Streamers Waving in the Wind. The Soveraign next does fteer her graceful Course, Raifing her Royal head, nor is behind Britannia for her bravery or Force;

Imperial

Imperial State, Majestick like her Name,
Reigns in each Motion, and do's nobly how,
Her just disdain of an Invading Foe;
That dares affront her Country or her Fame.
Next her the Phanix London Booms along,
The Lofty Theam of a fam'd Laureats Song:
That like great Maro, best could treat of Kings;
And write in mighty numbers mighty things.
The Great St. Andrew too in equal Rank;
Exalts her Glittering Prow;
Proud of her Walls of Oak, and Death defying Plank;
Altho they never did in Scotland grow;
And lastly, to fill up the glorious Line,
And lastly, to fill up the glorious Line, The blest St. Michael, like her Name Divine;
Crowned with authorisions Partition 1991
Crown'd with auspicious Fortune comes, Gallias inveterate Foe and Rome's.
For as the Conquering Archangel fought.
And all Light Description results and a back as back
And the Figure Diagon to Continuon bloughts 1999
I hat ofe Marking to prosperously prevails.
That o're Mankind so prosperously prevails, to is she doom'd to rout and quell the Dragon of Versailles.
So rather than the French command our Sea,
Or in tweet Albion Plant the Plated Colony.
And after these with foreading Sails appear 1110 1110 0 111
More wonders moving in a lowell feather will have
A noble Fleet of second and third Rates, All John OM Our Charles Bullwark and the States 3 HUDON WIND.
Our Charles Bollwark and the States Thupon vibo.
That our best brood of English bear,
Heroes that hold their Honour as a Jem,
Of rich and of unpriz'd effeem:
Of rich, and of unpriz'd efteem; And weigh each Vessel that for Empire strives,
Dear as their darling Lives
TL _ 1_ · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
The Panel Dule and Valiant Offens
The Beautious Dutchess, Mistriss of the Sea:
The Dreadnought, and the Restauration, The Resolution, sworn to right the Nation; blogged all

Glide on the rowling Billows and make sport With each oposing surge, a Monarchs Court Is every Vessel, and in every Room

The Amorous Sails swell with the Winds that blow, And Woods of English Oak upon the Ocean grow, The Flower de Luce, and Type of English tame,

When they the French did lame:
Guilds every Flag, and in each Lyons eves
The Rage of our wrong d Nation feems to rife;
To fee what now they are,

And heretofore we were ;

When Martial Henry drove 'em to their Walls, And Royally reveng'd the mock of their proud Tennis-Balls.

ALM was the Occur, as III in fall the Sun'. Bleming the new Creation, had beginn

Britannia first the Empress of the Fleet,
In awful pomp rides on each humble Wave;
Who forward Crowd with joy as pleased to meet:
Her glorious Stern and mighty sides to Lave;
The Jocund Dolphins round about her Keel,

Whene're the Martial Trumpets Sound; The Charming Influence of Musick feel,

The Charming Influence of Mulick feel, And Dance an Antick Round;

Whilst on the Deck a Thousand Heroes are; Valiant and young, true Natives, scorning fear,

That Englands Ancient Blood, and Honour bear:
And at their feet a hundred Brazen fates;

That kill as fast as Jove Creates:
When their hot Balls of Death are flying on,

When their hot Balls of Death are flying on, T Eclipse the great false Light of the proud Gallick Sun.

IV.

With Bloody Streamers Waving in the Wind,
The Soveraign next does steer her graceful Course,
Raising her Royal head, nor is behind
Britannia for her bravery or Force;

Imperial

Imperial State, Majestick like her Name,
Reigns in each Motion, and do's nobly how,
Her just disdain of an Invading Foe;
That dares affront her Country or her Fame.
Next her the Phanix London Booms along,
The Lofty Theam of a fam'd Laureats Song:
That like great Maro, best could treat of Kings;
And write in mighty numbers mighty things.
The Great St. Andrew too in equal Rank;
Exalts her Glittering Prow;
Proud of her Walls of Oak, and Death defying Plank;
Altho they never did in Scotland grow;
The bleft St. Michael, like her Name Divine;
Crown'd with authicious for the country of the Crown'd with auspicious Fortune comes,
Gallia's inveterate Foe and Rome's.
For as the Conquering Archangel fought.
And the Fiching Diagon to Contunion brought:
That ore Manking to prosperously prevails
That o're Mankind to prosperously prevails, to is she doom'd to rout and quell the Dragon of Versailles.
So rather than the French command our Sca,
Or in tweet Albion Plant their hated Colony,
And after these with spreading Sails appear, 100 110 mon 1
More wonders moving in a lower sphere, to not only
A noble Fleet of fecond and third Rates, di school of
Our Charles Bullwark and the States 3 111 pos viluo. 1011
That our best brood of English bear,
Heroes that hold their Honour as a Jem,
Of rich, and of unpriz'd efteem; And weigh each Veffel that for Empire strives, Dear as their darling Lives.
Deer as a Well Taylor Tires
Dear as their darling Lives.
The glorious Neptune, and the Vanguard bold The Sandwich fam'd for bravery of old;
TI D I DIVINE THE TELESCOPE TO THE PARTY OF
The Requirem Duke, and Valiant Offery,
and Deautious Duitness. Whithis of the Sea:
The Dreadnought, and the Restauration,
The Rejolution, Iworn to right the Nation;
Monodial D

And next as good as e're did Sayls unfurle, The great restorer of a Crown, the Loyal Albermarle.

VI.

With many more, facred in deathless fame, And in their brave Commanders bleft; That scorn to play the last years wretched Game, Or fell their Honour for base Interest; A noble courage swells each Martial heart, Whilit even each Coward Charm'd with secret shame, Grows flout in spite of fear, and acts a Heroes part; To right his Country and redeem his fame, The hated thought of Gallick Tyranny. In every freeborn English Soul, Will just resentment raise to a degree, That all fuch baseness must controul; And as we of a Noble Roman read. Who that his Country might be freed Bravely adventur'd, the without reward, To fab a Tyrant amongst all his Guard. So rather than the French command our Sea, Or in fweet Albion Plant their hated Colony, From out our Navy of our Power at Land Some Son of Fame, fome glorious Hand, No doubt the facted Steel will draw to sold older And gloriously acquire the Name of English Scavola.

VII.

Thus in an Intellectual Vision lost,
My sences charmed with the inchanting view,
A Scene, to equal which Apelles ne're could boast,
And mighty Titian never drew;
Whilst long with Pleasure sated I survey d
The dazling Glory of the Sea,
Where Naval Pomp in splendour lay,
And Englands Grandeur was at large display'd,

Methought

Methought the Watry God in state. Drew near the Royal Fleet, discinoutinos of miolos And with a Grace Majestick seem'd to greet. Her*that was honour'd with his Name, & we have mention'd late. *The Nor-His numerous train of leffer Deities, of an analysis world Rate. Around his shelly Chariot towl'd, and a a vom. of many The Winds were hush'd, and not a Breeze and all win of oT Grow fo Descenate and Vile; Durst be so bold. To move the filent Waves; but now, as if his Power w gold be Had doom'd the Marine World to rest that haby hour No found was heard through all his Scale Guard die Cear. Whilft her infulting Neighbour Ferent grow And her once petty FoHIV That some few Ages pass On a high Rock that dash'd with Waves had stood 16 10 E're fince th' Almighty, Fiat made the Scanommi and mod W And stemm'd the shock of the temperatures flood over Took Royal Privalences Orean Door good Rook Royal And to a hollow Cell had carvid his pondrous way. Neptune advances, and to the Aged Sireonile and mort back (Whom Joy uncommon did inforts or storage I should infort to the contract of t

To fee the Seas triumphant Gode anobnu thon and vel work Her Schilm, Rebellion (aboda sid to place of his aboda side) Waving his facred Trident, the Father grac d, Polyon vel bal And on the Rocks leaft Craggy part upon his right hand placed. Then full of Oracle the profound filence brokendu million And thus of his Loy'd Albion with Divine fury spoke.

Redeem, redeem, the wretched loss of time Oh thou, the Garden of the Universe, one in the Whose fame the Songs of Angels might disperse; And Bards Divine, where Wit is most extream, And merit Wreaths of Lawrel from the mighty Theme. Thou lovely Park, where Herds of Kings may dwell Pal'd in with Sea, and be Invincible. Thou blisful seat, which the Eternal made (Untird with the Creating Trade)

ht

Before the courser Mould had its decree, To form the common Herb, or Flower, or Tree. How oft from my profound recess below. Did I my forrow thew ? make the who we have with Sorrow as great as possible could be When Pity moves a Deity blwort portral Deliver To fee my Darling Britain, my Lov'd Isle, Grow fo Degenerate and Vile; blod and fruct Sickning with Sloth, and baneful Luxury & and had svore all Her Gredit doft to at degree frow some Ward b'moob bill Of Cowardia and groß Stupidity the basel are baile of Whilft her infulting Neighbour Potent grows, And her once petty Focal V That some few Ages past, Gladly a Peace with her embracidies and soon deid a no Ere fince th' Algemin ramoral egnix amount and modW Have Conquerd in their Native Chines I branch bal Took Royal Pritoners in Chromiell blo toor good slorly At And to these wind on distinct made them yield a or back And from the glittering Bander of their Crown, be and of Taken the Impress to adot the town moon you mond W) Now by her floth undone, and treathers unit seed side sol of Her Schism, Rebellion, and Impieto policy and ruonoli. And by neglect in Warrolong remiser Thorond aid gnive W And on the Rocks leafelshog on square Her Her Harring Svaff Ca. And her substantial Lyons win for th' Titular Flew de Lice I And thus of his Loyd Abien with Divine fure poke

Redeem, redeem, thy wretched loss of time,
Redeem thy honour, moulding as the Gravely, north do
No longer doze and hug thy fluggish crime to make about
But rouze, and finking credit save. Showed shall but
The Destinies are kind, the Book of Fate is fair, north but
No blotted Omen does appear, who was a visual but
But Influence benevolent crowns the auspicious year. but Thy Wealth is mighty, and thy Navy great, with drive bound.
And blushing Victory seems to wait, the drive bound.

The The Pre-ordain do by Fate.

The Powers too of my Empire all agree, 101
From the vaft Caverns of unfathom'd Sean 1911 Norther (1
To affift Britains Cause cooped by meenon of their the
The Waves shall mount, and Winds shall rage on the or back Rough Boreas shall the Foe ingage, and the locations
Rough Boreas shall the Foe ingage, and in who state al
Who tols'd in fatal froms thall featter far! In more brasen of
Or blindly on themselves make War, a violed to southedT
Whilst Zephyrus, and every gentle Wind, indi lubors and Still to thy Fleet propitions are and kind, oning dome it noqu
And on my watry Plain shall fafely ride, avrious thus no sull
Untroubled with a ruffling storm, or with a rowling tide bank
His, Royalheart inix with the common fale;
Norwill he wear the Wreath, unks he same the coll.
 But to retrieve the glory of his Nation,
And as the Natives on thyochalky there, no brown of zading Haz
Behold with Joy thy Naval Power and while language and had Greater than Britain e're could boast before.
Who if they Loyal service pay,
And take no Bribes their Country to betray, Are strong enough to gain a universal sway. I be no reven the strong enough to gain a universal sway.
So Fame through thy Perspective let them see and head
Mine Telicies
Albions Felicity, addition to a need no.
Fix'd in her present Monarchs Bravery. Will all 15 (15 Von 2A	-
Royal Nassaw, of whom to write is vain, and all subject to the Twould blunt the ableft Pen, and crack the foundest Brain.
The extreme of thought, adorn'd with nices? Wit,
Pas character has never writ,
Describe all good they can, they must leave something yet.
Call him Deliverer, let Eufebia kneel, And show the Wounds she did so larely feel,	hurch.
And how the wounds he did to lately feel,
Unveil the bleeding breast his soveraign balm did heal.
And then in Prayer by grateful homage shew,	- 1
Or file him Pions Generally Valiantil Wife aleas and work of or the limit I lous, Collectous, Vallant, Vinc,
Who beyond Virgit's Muse, or soaring Pindar flyes,
Will reach his Fame no more than Mole hills do the Skies.
Strict Moral Vertue does his breast dontroul, but will To
And there reigns in him a true Kingly Soul
Told C Not

u 4 1
Not fway d by Avarice of Luxury I mg to con a swolloul T.
Tyrannick Luft, nor poor Dogmatick Bigottry, and more
But firm to Honour, true to his great trust,
And to the meanest of his subjects Just dom it and wall of I
In time of War none readier than he, limit and the
To hazard life in th' Field or latinch to Sea ;
The Hunt of Glory is his chief aclight,
But careful that his capie is right, we but
Upon French Principles Great Nelson will not fight,
But on just motives, with the first go on,
And face the worst of dangers, like each private man;
His Royal heart mix with the common File;
Nor will he wear the Wreath, unless he share the toil.
But to retrieve the glory of his Nation,
Still pushes forward on each brand occasion, de one an bonh
And his Successful V alour proves Divine Predestination. Aloud
Greater than Britain ere could book before.
Who if they Let dervice HX
And take no Ethos than Country to better
Next Reverend Father, life thy Eyes and all and ground of
And if the aged Opticks of thy fight, an aguard of Can bear a Ray fo bright,
As never yet was rivalled in the skies, and another tool of beat
See Gloriana fighing on the Throne; a mode to safely hard
Her Royal Lord the Faiths Defender gone in the land in Objects how filial Piety, a judgment to one the old
Loaded with State, and foveraign Dignity,
The weighty pressure of a Crown and one book to some of
The Peoples fatisfaction not her own to the mullion
Disturbs her facred rest and anxious Care, on world but.
Invererate Foe to all the Fair, and in and amband on he said
In the midit of her teignal limites that have as chieft 1913 000
And thews true Beauty in a throw to grief
See how the icale of Milities wilely the animands
And holds the fword with guiltless hands.
And holds the fword, with guiltless hands a based on A perfect Angelia a double kind a common on a man and a common of the commo
For outward Grace and Victures of her Mind
And there comes in him a true Kingly Soul

Lya
Her heart with Care of her great charge oppress.
Still throbs within her heavily break.
She wishes Peace, but ah tak will not be mad you had
The Lands Contagion spreads to that degree, 10/1
Tis only War can cure the hated Maladed bow down
Yet in the midst of Wars slarens, Mach and aid!
Its hourly terrours, and impending harms, and impending harms, and impending harms,
While Denmarks noble Photogradgim and Blogmood MidV
Offers his blood; and ratifuormor andilab lla ravo bnA
Her Influencing eyes are fall the father, or regular distribution of Relolyes t' Ingage at Squath sthill laulte rish this bnA
Her face is all serene and fair,
And the Bellona may appear,
Warring within her troubled heart, Love keeps his Revels there. The work of the Rocks hollow XIII.
Times poke in the body and the state of the
The liftning Twitous rife, field freitens
Her Sister in the next bright sphere does move, w behant A. Twin-like, in Vertue, Piety and Love; it to stade M. visot 10
The happy Mother to a brood of Kings, or and devil only
That shall in future times do wondrous things: Denoted A
And as like Heaven-born Sifters they agree, and mail
In all the points of facred armity and about a woll
So choicest blessings Providence bestows,
And the in different guifes, an equal bounty theware and
To one a closions Diaders
To one a glorious Diadom, and distribute of but. To th' other an unvalued Jem, and they are a word with the
A Happy Son, a young Hustrious Prince,
That when the Gallick Infolence
Shall cool, and Mighty Williams Annals fill,
With Histories of Conqueste there, as I presage they will,
Shall march with his brave Sire, the Royal Dane,
To fummon Normandy, Poictien and Mayne,
And as our once known ancient right, Anjob and Apartagne;
From fuch an Unite Good a Farney room
That Glory's brightest prize pursue
What may we not expect, odrill a other beautiful
When they our Arms direct?
What
That the same of t

What from their Conduct may not Albion do ? and Told The first his Royal Word esteems bowond a Crown, And by their Words good Monarch beff are known. Nor can a Kings Divinity be true and both I all Unless Word be pot facted too of one no will wind all This, this, is Cafars Maxime, he who now commands. The boldest Sons of Fame in Foreign Lands, and Into the Whilst Denmarks noble Prince as bravely here, Offers his blood; and rather than not bear his rovo EnA In Britains danger, or its fame, la share, or moneuflei all Refolves t' Ingage at Sca a Royal Volunteer, it diew both Her face is all ferene and fair And the Bellona may Warring within her troubled heart. Love keeps his Revelsther. Thus flower the Marine God, and all around, From the Rocks hollow Cells and Deeps profound. The liftning Tritons rife, and shelly Trumpets found, Attended with a numerous training of the ni Of fealy Mobble of the Mainbur view, entry in Jetter View, in Vertile, in Vert Who fwam in crowds to fee that pompous flow, A glorious City made of Caftles, flowing on the Then bloated with the News rod-novi at land as I Down to their Manfion Dozena to amog and the nid And distant fry, with Joy return again, agained the pioces But amongst all that Neptunes speech had heard, And in attention had rever'd, suomoby 1, 200 Hoary Oceanus fat with most regard; lever as most of

His awful Counfellour and Friend, That long fince had his favour gain'd, I shill all off madical For grateful fervice in his Love, and il has

When Ampitrite first did his hearts passion move. Who as the at the foot of Allas fate, and the Priding her felf in her free Virgin flare, Was by her Grandfire match'd away, two the sollo

And on a Dolphin forcid to ride, on fuch an Unkley Through the vast Empire of the Sea, algord a visit To be deboached into a Bribe-When the curt Arms direct ?

WHE may TE HOL CK

He, till the Marine Deity had done His late admir'd Oration.

Withheld his smothering griefs; but now Sighs taking vent, his bosom large did grow With forrows, that he could no longer tame; Which from his swelling breast at last, thus broke into a stame.

XV.

Great King of boundless floods, to whom was given Not only the great Empire of the Sea,

But as a more peculiar Lott from Heaven,

A Wisdom large as thy Imperial sway. The happy Albion in thy favour bleft,
Above all Nations may Exalt her head,
A fecret Pang torments my breaft,

To see how spiritless and dead The Natives are that throng her chalky shore,

And how unlike their brood of Heroes heretofore. Glory was once the subject of their Arms,

But now for Interest each faction swarms; And Honour which each noble bosome sway'd, For Gold is barter'd, and become a Trade.

Nay, even Religion grows fophisticate, And base differenting schism of late, With errours jarring, set em all at strife; They Preach up tother, but they love this life. Even the most Reverend of the facred Mystery,

The weakest eyes may plainly see, Not proof against the luscious bait of tempting dignity. Why fince their Soul and Flocks should be their care,

Should worldly accidents their bosomes share, And fordid Lucre take possession there? At least whilst facred Providence, Allows a proper competence,

Why should their obstinate and stubborn will Occasion to their Country so much ill,

He

As

As in their Cause, to make vile fewds increase, And they themselves renounce the Type of Apostolick peace.

XVI.

In Court too 'tis the fame,

Few there by Virtue purchase Fame,

But he that best can over-reach, best plays the Courtiers game.

The Politician tires his brains But for his own peculiar gains,

His Countries Cause might fink, lost be the state,

Had he not some by-ends of being great-

Or should we search the Lawyers honesty,

In knavish Courts of Common-Pleas, or couzning Chancery,

You'd find Integrity appear

The worst of all the Causes there.

Rich Mammons business shall not go amiss,

But poor Phillemon sucs in forma pauperis;

And tho his worth be great, shall seldom draw

To aid him, the compassion of the Law.

In Love too we the fame defects behold,

Hearts now are bought and fold;

The Man of fense, alas! in vain does Wooe,
Dull Ignorance with Gold, can Vertue far outdo,

Be Merit ne're fo great, or Passion ne're so true.

Cinthia still chooses wealthiest Men,

Th' ill fated fair one never looks within,

Ne're asks how worthy, but how great?

What qualities, but what Estate?

And the of gifts of fortune the's poffeft, the line of low

Enough to make some man of merit blest

Who would in grateful fervice wafte his life

T' oblige so generous a Wife;

And happiness that way secure,
Which the Rich Husbands Gold can ne're assure.

Yet land and titles bear the fway,

Cinthia does Avarice obey;

And in her eye, how poorly does appear (year. A thousand Vertues, when compar'd t'a thousand pounds a It Treaton scalleng lives with a And they forese the Name .IIVX In all degrees of frail Humanity and a local drive of and There must great Errors be;
But ah my aged sight in tears is lost,
To think that Albion bears the most: The quality of every strange offence undit onto the train ! So much enrages Providence, and low on down of I That Mercy after Crimes to bate north noobs; and novembra Seems Imposition upon heavenly Grace. Observe what Jarrs, the bane of all content. Amongst themselves her Sons foment: Is all the harmony the hears; and hated broyls 'twixt friend and friend sugar and and live Curst Bigottry began the Play, influence which were not work and Then Revolution chang'd the scene, and animal anima And brought a happy freedom in, said apprecion and and Till stubborn Pride turndit a tragick way, And provid the humour of each Native there. Just like the nature of the Clime and Air. For as the Weather instantly vibronosty March tom ... Can change from hot to cold, from moift to dry, So they from Rebels can turn Loyal men, and has order Set up a King and prove his Right and on not of off. And for him Vote, and for him Fight willb from beA and at the least disgust can Rebels turn agen. I will will will Mer, now their Fortune rifes to a neph Urder great William proper HIVX it, outed Rulers their digrace Mean time whilft schisms possess our frantick brains. His ends the Gallick tyrant gains: He the rich Prize away does bear, and awards and are for which we one another tearngood diagula a mild a.

What

What can this Mighty Navy do, If only opulent in thew? If Treason sculking lyes within, And they forget the Name of English Men, A scene of Glory they may idly boast, But fee with shame their Country lost. Ith' contrary, if Loyal Vertue warms Their Valiant hearts, and they dare use their Arms, If they the difference can fee . Twixt free-born right and flavery;

The French may well tepent their Infolence once more, And never hope t'adorn their brows with Lawrels from our (fhore.

Obland white Just a street borne. XIX or aready

Autonoff the Mayor Linkons former to Thus spoke the Reverend Father, to whom strait The awful God reply'd, and all mornies Well has thy tongue describ dipoor Albion's state, And Caule of Gallick Phides of abovil But now in great Nasaws Illustrious Reign, The Martial Genius does return again; Her Sons no longer Lazy Peace effects, The fouls of Edward and great Hemy live in him. Henry and William fated are the fame; There's a Prophetick force even in the Name, Which does Mysteriously shew, might be with The latter like the first shall Conquer too. Time lately was when flosh and cafe The Poylon to their English Blood, land and in And curft destroyer of their good, and solve and not be Worse than the Plague, was their disease. But now their Fortune rifes to a nobler height, Under great William prosperously they fight; Bigotted Rulers their difgrace still brings, The dull and stame of suc a some box hill a filled we Ne're reach to fame; : kning many 30 1100 vels chas all A Martial Race thrive best with Martial Kings. So, as in Numa's fluggish Reign, and and and and and and and and Forgetful Rome dissolvid in case,

The

The valiant Ancus did her fame regain,
And War succeeded drowsie Peace:
Their brave new Monarch a fresh game began,
And boldly led the Latins on:
Glory renew'd, the haughty Gauls did bow,
So arm'd with strong fidelity,
Their troops on shore, and power at Sea;
Courage that shall in fight renew,
And my auspicious blessing too,
As powerful Rome did then, shall mighty Albion now.

XX.

Thus ending with an air divinely great,

The Deity rose up and blest the Fleet;

At which the Sea-Gods from the shore,

The blessing twice repeating ore,

With shouts confirm'd, and th' Chariot strait prepare;

For now the soultry Air,

Began t' offend th' scaly Fry,

And Nereids gasping fret, for fear their Fins should dry,

Their Monarch plunging through the Sea,

Down to his Palace, drives a long mysterious way,

Through watry Provinces where Nature lyes

'Mongst undiscover'd Rarities.

Oceanus too, on his Sea Pacer plac'd,

To his low home made haste;

Who whilst th' attending Train each to his Mansion dives,

Full forty thousand Fathom deep, the Sire at last arrives.